Noranda granted reprieve

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Missouri Air Conservation Commission has approved a oneyear reprieve for Noranda Aluminum, Inc. to comply with state air pollution laws.

Noranda had sought an indefinite variance from state restrictions for its southeastern Missouri plant at New Madrid, but the Department of Natural Resources recommended against any delay.

James P. Townley, one of the five commission members who gave unanimous support to the one-year variance, said the problem facing the commission was to "strike a balance of costs and benefits."

The company admitted that emissions from the plant were greater than allowed by state law but said the air in the vicinity of the plant meets both the primary and secondary standards for particulate matter in the air. The state air quality staff, however, contended recent tests have indicated the air contains more particulates than allowed by the secondary standards.

Both sides admitted preliminary test results were open to question, and all five commission members said they were disappointed that air sampling in the area of the plant had not been more precise. One member, John R. Barsanti, said his work on the case had destroyed his notion that air contamination measurements could be scientifically precise.

Noranda would have to spend about $10 million to install air pollution control devices at the plant and operation of the equipment would cost several hundred thousand dollars a year, an attorney for the firm said.

The emissions come from the older of two almost identical production facilities at the plant. The newer of the two facilities was built recently enough that modern air pollution control devices were included. The staff argued that the company should add similar equipment to the older facility.

One point raised at the meeting was the fact that 25 small cotton gins in the area of the plant are required to comply with pollution requirements. The commission staff argued it would be unfair to force them to comply while granting a variance to Noranda.

Billy F. Keeling, air pollution specialist for the state, told the commission that several gin owners had complained about "our dogging small cotton gins when they have to look at what's going on across the interstate."

James L. Robinett, a commission member, said the case, which had been under consideration for a year, was a difficult one. "I am not persuaded we should force Noranda to spend $9 million or $10 million" based on the evidence" presented so far, he said.

Teasdale told 'time to move' on budget

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The chairman of the state Senate Appropriations Committee has expressed some concern over the fact that Gov.-elect Joseph Teasdale has made no visible effort to begin work on the $2.7 billion state budget for next year.

"It's time we do start moving on the budget," Sen. Norman Merrell said on Wednesday in releasing a letter to Teasdale in which he provided "some of my ideas that could serve as guidelines for the 1977-78 state budget."

"I'm a little concerned. We should have something done before too long," Merrell said. "We don't have a penny-ante budget any more."

State budget officials have said they have yet to have any major contact with Teasdale or his aides concerning the budget, and Gov. Christopher S. Bond, whom Teasdale defeated in the Nov. 2 election, has said he has been unable to contact Teasdale on the matter.

On another issue, Merrell, who will become the Senate president pro, tem in January, said he believed the state should abandon efforts to build medium security prisons in the urban areas and begin immediate construction of the facilities in mid+Missouri on land owned by the state.

While saying he was not opposed to an urban location, he said the problems in finding an urban site that have delayed construction for nearly 18 months could be solved by using land now owned by the state.

Merrell also recommended that the Conservation Department should take over full financing of the state forestry program and parks and recreation program since its budget will be more than doubled through a recently approved constitutional amendment.

That amendment calls for the assessment of a one-eighth cent sales tax beginning next July with the proceeds earmarked for use by the Conservation Department. The forestry program is now partially funded by general revenue and the parks program, under the Department of Natural Resources, is funded through general revenue and user fees.

"The net general revenue savings resulting from these two recommendations would be approximately $5 million," Merrell said. Backers of the tax boost wanted the additional funding to be used for a major land acquistion program proposed by the Conservation Department.

In his letter to the governorelect, Merrell outlined several items that he said should be given major consideration in the governor's budget message and that can be implemented without any tax increase.

Among those are immediate funding for the newly created Missouri Elderly and Handicapped Transportation Assistance Program and the expanded public defender program. Those expenditures along with other emergency funding requests will total about $25 million, Merrell said, although state budget officials say they expect emergency funding requests to total only about $16 million.

Pedestrian hit by car, hurt

A 15-year-old pedestrian was struck by an automobile and injured at 3:48 p.m. Wednesday at the intersection of South Main Street and Matthews Avenue.

Sheila Faye Miller, 4 Hackberry Drive, was treated for a fractured arm in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital and released.

According to the Department of Public Safety, she was struck by a car driven north on Main Street by Delbert Hardy Morgan, 30, of 232 Kinder St., as she stepped onto South Main from Matthews Avenue.

Public safety officers said no arrest was made.

Puxico to vote on city marshal, collector issue

PUXICO — A city election will be held sometime in January to decide whether the positions of city marshal and city collector shall remain elective positions or appointed ones.

Mayor Eddie Sifford said today that there has been no problem with the present setup, in which the positions are elective, but the persons presently holding them will soon be retiring and the city would like to have more control in filling the offices.

The positions have been elective about 20 to 25 years, Sifford said, and Albert Hawthrorn, the present marshal, and Inez Holligan, the collector, have held the positions almost that long.

Not much interest has been shown in the jobs, but Sifford said the city wants to make sure qualified persons hold the jobs.

The hearing will begin at 2 p.m. in the St. Francois County Courthouse at Farmington. Anyone who wishes to testify will be given the opportunity to do so.

The commission said that the hearing will be held in Farmington as a result of numerous letters and complaints from residents in Farmington, Flat River and Fredericktown expressing their concern over the proposed changes.

Scott gets $56,200 federal grant

JEFFERSON CITY — Scott County was awarded a $56,200 federal matching grant Tuesday for the development of a county park in the west- central part of the county.

The grant, awarded by the State Inter-Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation will enable the county to develop picnic areas, playground equipment, trails, a five-acre lake and basic facilities on the 45-acre tract. The park will serve the communities of Sikeston, Chaffee, Oran, Scott City, Morley and Benton.

Scott County's Project was one of 175 applications totaling more than $12.5 million submitted to the Missouri Department of Natural Resources for consideration this year. About $3.5 million in Land and water Conservation Fund grants was made available to DNR to distribute to cities, counties, school districts and state agencies with the highest priority given to recreational projects.

The nine- member state council determined which projects were mostly worthy of funding, based upon recommendations by DNR's outdoor recreation assistance staff.

Pop concert set tonight

The Sikeston Freshman Band will present a brief pop concert at 7:30 p.m. today in the junior high school cafeteria.

Ed Cowan, director, said the program will only last about 30 minutes and encouraged parents to come and bring their children. The junior high school twirlers will also perform two numbers, he said.

Severe terms urged for Medicaid fraud

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is being urged to consider severe jail terms for doctors, druggists and nursing home operators found guilty of taking part in the estimated billions of dollars in Medicaid fraud.

A New York state prosecutor told a Senate investigating committee Wednesday that his office uncovered evidence that nursing home operators were padding bills under the federalstate Medicaid program to pay for personal luxuries.

Charles Hynes, New York state special prosecutor for nursing homes, said his office found that nursing home operators treated themselves to mink coats, stereo equipment and paintings by such masters as Matisse and Renoir, claiming in bills to Medicaid that these were all legitimate business expenses.

It has been estimated that abuse and fraud in Medicaid, a federal-state program for the poor, and Medicare, which aids the elderly, cost taxpayers $3 billion to $4 billion a year.

Despite those figures, said Hynes and Samuel K. Skinner, U.S. attorney for Northern Illinois, virtually no health service offenders are ever sent to jail.

Skinner blamed the federal government in large part because the health insurance programs, which together cost about $40 billion a year, were launched with no tests or pilot projects.

Skinner also warned that "it would be suicidal to go ahead with national health insurance," which could cost up to $80 billion a year, until state and federal officials show they can rid Medicaid and Medicare of fraud.

Hynes said that "there still exists a climate in this country where the exploitation of old people is a respectable and risk-free profession."

He testified that the kickback scheme with suppliers worked this way: in order to get a nursing home contract, the supplier would pad its bill by charging for goods that were never delivered, and the nursing home operator would pass the phony bills along to the Medicaid program and end up with the extra cash.

A HANDOUT IS NOT A JOB

It is to be hoped that one ill-advised proposal of the last Congress — the so-called "Humphrey- Hawkins" or "Full Employment" bill — will be quickly, decisively and permanently laid to rest when our legislators return to Washington. Of all the possible measures that might be taken to "help" our economy, the Humphrey-Hawkins proposal is the very worst.

In essence, the idea is that the government will "create" jobs and thus put people to work — financed by the taxpayers. The trouble is, we already have thousands upon thousands of people on the government payroll who are filling "jobs" of highly dubious value. And there can be no question but that our over-blown bureaucracy is not helping, but seriously harming our economy.

Senator William Roth of Delaware, in a recent article (Reader's Digest, Nov. 1976) points out that under the broad umbrella of "domestic assistance" Congress has created 1,030 separate programs, administered by 52 different agencies which are costing us not millions, but billions of dollars — and only the Lord knows how many thousands of bureaucrats to shuffle paper. In the health field alone, reports Senator Roth, we have 302 programs administered by 11 different agencies; while in "community development" we have no less than 259 programs!

One could concede that Congress might create one agency to handle water-pollution research and development (although it could be strongly argued that this should be left to the individual States). But no; our spend-thrifts in legislative clothing created twenty-five bureaus in 14 different departments to decide how to launder water. And the list goes on and on.

By now, even the most mentally incompetent member of Congress (we'll leave it to others to decide who that might be) must know that a "job" that is dependent upon a government handout is not a job. Putting everybody to work for the Federal government is not "full employment"; it is a combination rip-off and shell - game.

There are, of course, some absolutely essential tasks to be performed by the Federal Government. Our national defense is one of them. Oddly enough, while adding people to the Federal payroll, Congress has been putting people out of work in defense industries. Crazy!

The young person who has been carefully disciplined and trained in the surface amenities has a firm base from which it is easy to make the transition from childhood to the adult world. Knowing what to say and when to say it is as important to man as oil is to a complicated machine.

Altogether too much is expected today of church, school and community. None of these outside influences can counteract the impact of what a child learns at home. It might throw a lot of juvenile authorities out of work if more homes taught good old fashioned manners to their children.

NO SPACE FOR CANDIDATE ARGUMENTS

Last week the Appeal received a letter from a candidate, which included a "letter to the editor" refuting some of the charges one of his opponents was alleged to have made against him.

It was not published for the reason that the Appeal believes it should not throw its news columns open for the arguments of candidates against each other, regardless of whether the Appeal is for or against the candidates.

We've never seen a campaign that didn't have someone making possibly unfounded charges against another candidate. If we started publishing such charges and denials, there would be no end, and none of the candidates involved would gain any votes as a result. About the only result of such tactics is to create bitterness and harden the opposition.

A THOUGHT ON PATRIOTISM

Courageous men came long ago to this virgin land, and it blossomed under their hands. They contended with the greatest tasks of human society and government, and a great republic was reared. They cherished noble ideals, and their commonwealth reached out to lead and influence the world.

They built upon supreme, universal, eternal principles. They saw in their small domain weakness, but they made it into goodness. They beheld enemies without fear, opposition without despair, problems without evasion and sacrifices without cowardice.

So long as the principal of our forefathers remain, no storms of destruction shall prevail. Out of every strife we have grown stronger, until we are welded into one irresistible, unbreakable nation.

We celebrate the ideals of our great republic— ideals of freedom and justice, and equality of opportunity, to which the founders dedicated our nation. These are the thoughts which should come to our minds on Independence Day.

LESS CANDIDATE CANDOR, PLEASE

Everybody in the country knows what Jimmy Carter said in response to one question in that now- notorious Playboy interview. Scarcely one in 100 could tell you what the question was.

Essentially, Mr. Carter was asked what reassurance he could give to those people who are a bit put off by what they see as a rigidly moralistic and judgmental Baptist faith and are concerned about the untoward influence it might have on his conduct in the presidency.

Here was an opportunity for the candidate to give a brief homily on the traditional American principle of separation of church and state, dropping an appropriate Jeffersonian or Madisonian quote, and to pledge that he, like other presidents before him, would continue to uphold that principle.

Instead, as we know, he unburdened himself of a rather silly confession, in which his candor was less to be admired than his judgment was to be deplored. Actually, however, it could have been much worse.

Mr. Carter might have said something like this: That however strongly held one's personal religious faith may be, we live in a pluralistic society in which different people have different beliefs. Since no one has ever been able to prove to everyone's satisfaction who's side God is on, the only way we can get along together and conduct the affairs of the nation is for everyone to behave like practical atheists.

If Carter's use of the word "screw" alienated an unknown number of voters, the word "atheist" would have lost him a lot more. After all, even Richard Nixon acknowledged that the only person he would consider unfit to be president would be an atheist.

Well, in any event, we can now believe Jimmy Carter when he says he will never lie to us. But that doesn't mean he has to tell us everything.

A child's introduction to the private enterprise system has just been published by the Department of the Treasury.

AMERICA STILL EMBODIES LIBERTY

For all the criticism it encounters abroad, the United States continues to be a beacon light of freedom. The ideals enshrined in the Declaration of Independence remain a powerful force shaping foreign views of America— at least wherever newspapers are free to express those views.

This is the impression gained from a sampling of international editorials collected by Atlas World Press magazine on the subject of the Bicentennial.

The Sunday Telegraph of London, for example, proclaimed that "had it not been for the success of the American experiment, the idea of individual freedom would never have survived the challenges of the 20th century."

The London Observer noted that "We can be a little proud that no other nation, not even Imperial Rome, produced so great and nobly independent an offspring."

Such fond favoritism could, of course, be expected from the Mother Country. But in France, with whom our relations have not always been smooth, Le Figaro of Paris said that Americans "have represented the cause of liberty, independence, democracy...and still do."

If America is "the most criticized country in the world," said the French news magazine l'Express, "(it) is also the most imitated, and nothing that goes on in America is wholly alient to Europe or the rest of the world, including China and the Soviet Union."

The Suddeutsche Zeitung of Munich: "Two hundred years after its birth, America is still the world's protector of liberty, the greatest hope of freedom-loving humanity."

Outside Europe, Atlas found a rather more ambivalent attitude toward America. But "Elima" of Kinshasa, Zaire, wrote that "nowhere in the world will you find such attachment to liberty as in America. As residents of the Third World, we must particularly praise the positive response of America to the underdeveloped world."

And in India, the Bombay Times noted that world peace is still largely a function of American power and prosperity. American institutions, the paper said, "will continue to inspire and influence man in his endless journey towards freedom."

A tall order, and more than enough to fill a third century.

ANOTHER WOODSTOCK

WASHINGTON — The word has just been passed that Jimmy Carter is inviting 300,000 to 400,000 campaign workers and friends to his inauguration in Washington, D.C. Naturally, those of us who live in the capital are thrilled to hear that so many people will be coming here on Jan. 20. There won't be anything like it since Woodstock.

I believe Mr. Carter's decision to send out so many invitations proves he doesn't know Washington at all. We really don't have that many hotels in the area. We can handle an American Bankers Convention, and we just manage to accommodate the Daughters of the American Revolution when they come to town every spring. But when you talk about housing and feeding 300,000 or 400,000 people from all parts of the country, Mr. Carter is going to have a problem.

Even if he uses the indoor swimming pool and the Oval Office for sleeping quarters, I can't see him able to put up more than 10,000 people at the White House. Since the weather forecasters are predicting a very cold winter, not too many supporters will want to camp on the Mall or the Capitol steps.

Of course, Mr. Carter could open up the federal buildings and invite people to sleep there, but that would mean displacing thousands of federal employees who are sleeping in them already.

There may be an effort on the part of the Carter Inaugural Committee to ask Washington residents to take people into their homes. I'm not sure how what kind of reaction they would get.

I called up Sen. Bob Dole and asked him if he would be willing to take in any guests coming to the Carter inauguration, and he hung up on me. Henry Kissinger said that, unfortunately, Nancy was redecorating their house in Georgetown, and they wouldn't have any room. The Fords said they would be packing at the time and couldn't take anyone in, and Teddy Kennedy told me he would be happy to put someone up, but, unfortunately, he has only one bedroom.

Even if we could find rooms for everybody, the question is how could we feed them? There are only 15 Kentucky Fried Chicken stands in all of Washington, 18 McDonald's hamburger outlets, 17 Burger Chefs and 12 Hot Shoppes.

The only experience Washington has had with handling so many people at one time was when the Veterans of World War I came to town during the Hoover Administration to protest their lack of bonuses, and Gen. MacArthur was ordered to drive them out of town.

In recent years we've dealt with mobs -- during the Nixon Administration thousands of students came to Washington to protest the Vietnamese war. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell handled the problem by rounding everyone up, arresting them and locking them up in the R.F.K. Stadium, which can't handle more than 51,000 people at one time.

Whether Mr. Carter would want to go to this extreme to handle his guests is something I don't know.

We admire the President-elect for wanting so many people to come to his inaugural, but we question his judgment in not thinking through what it will do to the town. We have about four places that can handle inaugural balls, so the majority of people will have to dance in the streets, possibly in the snow.

I'm not predicting trouble, but I believe Mr. Carter's first act as President may have to be to call out the National Guard on Jan. 20 and declare Washington a disaster area.

Every President has a right to have the inauguration of his choice, but Mr. Carter may have bitten off more than he can chew if everyone he invites to his swearing-in agrees to come.

If the President-elect decides to go ahead with it, I think he should pardon John Mitchell and make him chairman of his Inaugural Committee. Mitchell may not have cleared the streets of Washington legally, but at least he got the job done.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Attention Main Streets U.S.A.: Intelligence chiefs report mob already muscling in on Seaside Las Vegas East

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — For some time the crime syndicate -- controlling a huge "piece" of the Eastern labor rackets -- has summered along the shore area here right on down to lovely Wildwood. One of the toughest of the crime syndicate's alleged National Commission leisures away his aging days not far from the Philadelphia-Camden territory which is his personal domain.

And his capos summer here, too. That's according to New Jersey State Police Chief of Intelligence Justin Dantino. The reputed mob godfather is Angelo Bruno, not too healthy these days, but alert enough to keep sharp eyes on the newly legalized gambling casino potential in this Las Vegas East.

Capt. Dantino needs no corroboration. He's a pro -- a dedicated trooper. But no harm in reporting that recently FBI Director Clarence Kelley said Don Angelo Bruno "was allegedly one of the nine top syndicate rulers in the Nation and the reputed kingpin of Philadelphia and South Jersey racketeering."

This latter-day Sodom-by-the-sea, which so many believe will be saved from turning into an oceaside Gomorrah by the referendum-passed legal gambling law, is Bruno's "domain," according to Capt. Dantino. New Jeresey and Pennsylvania anti-crime records disclose that some of the Bruno crowd once looted a whole city, ran one of the biggest and longest non-floating dice games east of the Mississippi, raked in prostitution money and terrorized a large community. There is the late Joe Valachi's testimony -- words from the mouth of an old Mafia "soldier" or button man believed by the authorities to substantiate all this.

Now Atlantic City, incidentally where labor leaders made history; where the old Committee of Industrial Organization was launched by John Lewis and where Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters were ousted from AFL-CIO, hopes to have all those massive union conventions back. And merely because there will be gambling casinos. And the local innkeepers look forward to industrial association gatherings as well.

Maybe they'll come. I don't believe so. But that's not the point. Question is will the syndicate move in? Will it loot and terrorize the town as it did other communities? Capt. Dantino says yes. He charges that the Bruno and the late Carlo Gambino's crews had measured at least 11 hotels for size and potential control back in 1974, when New Jersey first voted on statewide legalized gambling. This was defeated by 500,000 votes.

But earlier this month Atlantic City got the gold ring. It won--what? Capt. Dantino says the Bruno crowd is back again. Without, of course, the late Don Carlo. And that the Philadelphia-Camden family, which hasn't received much national publicity, already is ensconced here in Atlantic City, "interested" in two of the six hotels eligible for gambling casinos. No reflection on the hotels now standing and those to be constructed. But they're public corporation. And the captain says it will take 49 additional "intelligence and organized crime personnel" to handle the city now. Costing New Jersey about $1.1 million more a year.

Those state police officials opposed to legalized casinos for many reasons, including the conviction that welfare clients will find a way to blow money on dice instead of dinner, say one just can't find "civil servants qualified to run crap games and card games."

And from where will he croupiers come? And the discipline needed to prevent skimming?

Intelligence Chief Dantino says it all goes further than just the gaming tables. There are the "markers" -- the IOUs -- which must be collected. And many a Las Vegas loser who signed his chit, sayd Capt. Dantino, awakens some morning to find one of the syndicate persuaders with hand outstretched to collect the gambling debt. Sometimes, the muscled hand isn't empty.

Point is that an industrial state has turned to the green velvet for a social solution. It's playing roulette with its people searching for the jackpot, the big win -- and not just on the red and black. This is a huge numbers game.

The responsibility for decency and order now rests on those who whipped up $1 million for the pro-casino propaganda drive. That's a heavy load. It will take a year or so to start the dice and wheels rolling. And perhaps a year or two more to show whether this once-upon-a-time lovely boardwalk town, long permitted to decay, can be rehabilitated. Five will get you 50 it can't.

What should be done is to develop make-work housing projects; to mix idle black workers with unemployed construction craftsmen to build upon the shambles; to recruit able-bodied men and women from the relief rolls for Atlantic City's physical rehabilitation, even if it means a lower wage base; to develop community self-help plans and a chance for everybody who wants to work to make some "real bread" from all sorts of jobs now priced out of existence.

And all this must be based on self-policing and self-made law and order on the streets. When that went, this city began rotting. Without a real economic foundation and a base of working people, the few gambling casinos will simply be playing social roulette.

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- In the name of civilization, white Americans have pushed the Indians off their hunting grounds and herded them into reservations. The only wilderness left open to them is Alaska's vast, frozen tundra and timberland.

By Act of Congress, this last open territory was granted to them in 1971. The Alaskan Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts were declared to be the rightful owners of Alaska's wilderness.

Their ancestors had roamed this harsh country for centuries. The Supreme Court supported their right to the region in an 1837 decision. Then in 1969, a giant consortium of oil companies, known as Alyeska, prepared to build the Alaska pipeline.

The company, in clearing the right of way for the pipeline, found the authorities unsure over who owned the Alaskan wilderness. The 1971 Act was supposed to have settled the issue.

But the federal bureaucracy, as we've pointed out in the past, doesn't always pay attention to the laws that Congress passes. The Interior Department has shown a decided reluctance to implement the Act.

The department has been receiving pressure from the same selfish white interests that have succeeded in subverting Indian treaties in the past. The big game hunters and recreational interests fear, not without cause, that the natives will limit the hunting on their land.

Business and political circles are also uneasy over the economic power the natives will wield if they finally gain control of their vast acreage. Already, 12 federally funded, native corporations have been set up to determine how best to develop the land.

The Interior Department, therefore, has been obstructing the transfer of the Alaskan wilderness to its native owners. Congress gave Interior the authority, for example, to reserve certain easements. The purpose was to provide the general public with rights of way across native territory.

The department seized upon this provision to issue massive, blanket easements on the entire coastline of Alaska and around all inland rivers and lakes. The dispute over this action has become bogged down in litigation.

It's an old, sad story. Time and again, the federal government has signed treaties with the Indians, which guaranteed millions of acres but which delivered only thousands.

At this moment, protected white interests are illegally draining off the life-giving water of tribes in various parts of the country -- under the eyes of a government that systematically welshes on its commitments.

DICTATORS BEWARE: With Jimmy Carter in the White House, several Democratic congressmen will seek next year to strip tinhorn Latin American dictators of their military aid.

The group, led by Rep. Edward Koch, D.-N.Y., claims that the military governments face no threats from external enemies and are using American weapons to oppress their own people.

Carter has indicated that he will consider human rights in dealing with foreign nations. Koch expects to have his support, which he will solicit after the new foreign policy team is appointed.

Koch, a key member of the appropriations subcommittee that dispenses foreign aid, succeeded this year in pushing through legislation embargoing military aid to Uruguay. He cited Uruguay's use of U.S.-supplied weapons to torment its own people.

Next year, he plans to concentrate on the military outlays to such repressive governments as Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Paraguay and Nicaragua. There are a "lot of Uruguays in Latin America" he told us.

WATCH ON WASTE – The Federal Trade Commission was cited in a recent congressional study as the second most effective federal agency. It is effective not only in doing the taxpayers' work it turns out, but also in spending the taxpayers' money.

The FTC concluded a regional directors' conference in Nashville, for example, with a sumptuous smorgasbord of Chinese delicacies and booze. The $900 bill was picked up by the taxpayers.

When the bill arrived at the FTC's finance office, an outraged civil servant, Herb Nelson, refused to approve it. He was overruled by the agency's executive director, R.T. McNamar.

The former chairman, Lewis Engman, didn't like the reception on his office TV set. So the FTC bought him a color set for $500.

A lowlier FTC employee, Gerald H. Smith, was put in charge of a special field station in Detroit. Yet at the same time, he was carried on the rolls of the University of Michigan as a fulltime student.

Smith used an air-conditioned government car to commute the 40 miles between his office in Detroit and the university in Ann Arbor. He submitted vouchers claiming he had driven the car thousands of miles on government business.

Footnote: McNamar conceded it was improper to charge the booze to the taxpayers. But he insisted that the buffet was "appropriate for any conference." Engman said he needed the TV set to watch the newscast for any possible mention of the FTC. Smith declined to comment.

A HANDOUT IS NOT A JOB

It is to be hoped that one ill-advised proposal of the last Congress — the so-called "Humphrey- Hawkins" or "Full Employment" bill — will be quickly, decisively and permanently laid to rest when our legislators return to Washington. Of all the possible measures that might be taken to "help" our economy, the Humphrey-Hawkins proposal is the very worst.

In essence, the idea is that the government will "create" jobs and thus put people to work — financed by the taxpayers. The trouble is, we already have thousands upon thousands of people on the government payroll who are filling "jobs" of highly dubious value. And there can be no question but that our over-blown bureaucracy is not helping, but seriously harming our economy.

Senator William Roth of Delaware, in a recent article (Reader's Digest, Nov. 1976) points out that under the broad umbrella of "domestic assistance" Congress has created 1,030 separate programs, administered by 52 different agencies which are costing us not millions, but billions of dollars — and only the Lord knows how many thousands of bureaucrats to shuffle paper. In the health field alone, reports Senator Roth, we have 302 programs administered by 11 different agencies; while in "community development" we have no less than 259 programs!

One could concede that Congress might create one agency to handle water-pollution research and development (although it could be strongly argued that this should be left to the individual States). But no; our spend-thrifts in legislative clothing created twenty-five bureaus in 14 different departments to decide how to launder water. And the list goes on and on.

By now, even the most mentally incompetent member of Congress (we'll leave it to others to decide who that might be) must know that a "job" that is dependent upon a government handout is not a job. Putting everybody to work for the Federal government is not "full employment"; it is a combination rip-off and shell - game.

There are, of course, some absolutely essential tasks to be performed by the Federal Government. Our national defense is one of them. Oddly enough, while adding people to the Federal payroll, Congress has been putting people out of work in defense industries. Crazy!

For all the criticism it encounters abroad, the United States continues to be a beacon light of freedom. The ideals enshrined in the Declaration of Independence remain a powerful force shaping foreign views of America— at least wherever newspapers are free to express those views.

This is the impression gained from a sampling of international editorials collected by Atlas World Press magazine on the subject of the Bicentennial.

The Sunday Telegraph of London, for example, proclaimed that "had it not been for the success of the American experiment, the idea of individual freedom would never have survived the challenges of the 20th century."

The London Observer noted that "We can be a little proud that no other nation, not even Imperial Rome, produced so great and nobly independent an offspring."

Such fond favoritism could, of course, be expected from the Mother Country. But in France, with whom our relations have not always been smooth, Le Figaro of Paris said that Americans "have represented the cause of liberty, independence, democracy...and still do."

If America is "the most criticized country in the world," said the French news magazine l'Express, "(it) is also the most imitated, and nothing that goes on in America is wholly alient to Europe or the rest of the world, including China and the Soviet Union."

The Suddeutsche Zeitung of Munich: "Two hundred years after its birth, America is still the world's protector of liberty, the greatest hope of freedom-loving humanity."

Outside Europe, Atlas found a rather more ambivalent attitude toward America. But "Elima" of Kinshasa, Zaire, wrote that "nowhere in the world will you find such attachment to liberty as in America. As residents of the Third World, we must particularly praise the positive response of America to the underdeveloped world."

And in India, the Bombay Times noted that world peace is still largely a function of American power and prosperity. American institutions, the paper said, "will continue to inspire and influence man in his endless journey towards freedom."

A tall order, and more than enough to fill a third century.

ANOTHER WOODSTOCK

WASHINGTON — The word has just been passed that Jimmy Carter is inviting 300,000 to 400,000 campaign workers and friends to his inauguration in Washington, D.C. Naturally, those of us who live in the capital are thrilled to hear that so many people will be coming here on Jan. 20. There won't be anything like it since Woodstock.

I believe Mr. Carter's decision to send out so many invitations proves he doesn't know Washington at all. We really don't have that many hotels in the area. We can handle an American Bankers Convention, and we just manage to accommodate the Daughters of the American Revolution when they come to town every spring. But when you talk about housing and feeding 300,000 or 400,000 people from all parts of the country, Mr. Carter is going to have a problem.

Even if he uses the indoor swimming pool and the Oval Office for sleeping quarters, I can't see him able to put up more than 10,000 people at the White House. Since the weather forecasters are predicting a very cold winter, not too many supporters will want to camp on the Mall or the Capitol steps.

Of course, Mr. Carter could open up the federal buildings and invite people to sleep there, but that would mean displacing thousands of federal employees who are sleeping in them already.

There may be an effort on the part of the Carter Inaugural Committee to ask Washington residents to take people into their homes. I'm not sure how what kind of reaction they would get.

I called up Sen. Bob Dole and asked him if he would be willing to take in any guests coming to the Carter inauguration, and he hung up on me. Henry Kissinger said that, unfortunately, Nancy was redecorating their house in Georgetown, and they wouldn't have any room. The Fords said they would be packing at the time and couldn't take anyone in, and Teddy Kennedy told me he would be happy to put someone up, but, unfortunately, he has only one bedroom.

Even if we could find rooms for everybody, the question is how could we feed them? There are only 15 Kentucky Fried Chicken stands in all of Washington, 18 McDonald's hamburger outlets, 17 Burger Chefs and 12 Hot Shoppes.

The only experience Washington has had with handling so many people at one time was when the Veterans of World War I came to town during the Hoover Administration to protest their lack of bonuses, and Gen. MacArthur was ordered to drive them out of town.

In recent years we've dealt with mobs -- during the Nixon Administration thousands of students came to Washington to protest the Vietnamese war. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell handled the problem by rounding everyone up, arresting them and locking them up in the R.F.K. Stadium, which can't handle more than 51,000 people at one time.

Whether Mr. Carter would want to go to this extreme to handle his guests is something I don't know.

We admire the President-elect for wanting so many people to come to his inaugural, but we question his judgment in not thinking through what it will do to the town. We have about four places that can handle inaugural balls, so the majority of people will have to dance in the streets, possibly in the snow.

I'm not predicting trouble, but I believe Mr. Carter's first act as President may have to be to call out the National Guard on Jan. 20 and declare Washington a disaster area.

Every President has a right to have the inauguration of his choice, but Mr. Carter may have bitten off more than he can chew if everyone he invites to his swearing-in agrees to come.

If the President-elect decides to go ahead with it, I think he should pardon John Mitchell and make him chairman of his Inaugural Committee. Mitchell may not have cleared the streets of Washington legally, but at least he got the job done.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Attention Main Streets U.S.A.:

Intelligence chiefs report mob already muscling in on Seaside Las Vegas East

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — For some time the crime syndicate -- controlling a huge "piece" of the Eastern labor rackets -- has summered along the shore area here right on down to lovely Wildwood. One of the toughest of the crime syndicate's alleged National Commission leisures away his aging days not far from the Philadelphia-Camden territory which is his personal domain.

And his capos summer here, too. That's according to New Jersey State Police Chief of Intelligence Justin Dantino. The reputed mob godfather is Angelo Bruno, not too healthy these days, but alert enough to keep sharp eyes on the newly legalized gambling casino potential in this Las Vegas East.

Capt. Dantino needs no corroboration. He's a pro -- a dedicated trooper. But no harm in reporting that recently FBI Director Clarence Kelley said Don Angelo Bruno "was allegedly one of the nine top syndicate rulers in the Nation and the reputed kingpin of Philadelphia and South Jersey racketeering."

This latter-day Sodom-by-the-sea, which so many believe will be saved from turning into an oceaside Gomorrah by the referendum-passed legal gambling law, is Bruno's "domain," according to Capt. Dantino. New Jeresey and Pennsylvania anti-crime records disclose that some of the Bruno crowd once looted a whole city, ran one of the biggest and longest non-floating dice games east of the Mississippi, raked in prostitution money and terrorized a large community. There is the late Joe Valachi's testimony -- words from the mouth of an old Mafia "soldier" or button man believed by the authorities to substantiate all this.

Now Atlantic City, incidentally where labor leaders made history; where the old Committee of Industrial Organization was launched by John Lewis and where Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters were ousted from AFL-CIO, hopes to have all those massive union conventions back. And merely because there will be gambling casinos. And the local innkeepers look forward to industrial association gatherings as well.

Maybe they'll come. I don't believe so. But that's not the point. Question is will the syndicate move in? Will it loot and terrorize the town as it did other communities? Capt. Dantino says yes. He charges that the Bruno and the late Carlo Gambino's crews had measured at least 11 hotels for size and potential control back in 1974, when New Jersey first voted on statewide legalized gambling. This was defeated by 500,000 votes.

But earlier this month Atlantic City got the gold ring. It won--what? Capt. Dantino says the Bruno crowd is back again. Without, of course, the late Don Carlo. And that the Philadelphia-Camden family, which hasn't received much national publicity, already is ensconced here in Atlantic City, "interested" in two of the six hotels eligible for gambling casinos. No reflection on the hotels now standing and those to be constructed. But they're public corporation. And the captain says it will take 49 additional "intelligence and organized crime personnel" to handle the city now. Costing New Jersey about $1.1 million more a year.

Those state police officials opposed to legalized casinos for many reasons, including the conviction that welfare clients will find a way to blow money on dice instead of dinner, say one just can't find "civil servants qualified to run crap games and card games."

And from where will he croupiers come? And the discipline needed to prevent skimming?

Intelligence Chief Dantino says it all goes further than just the gaming tables. There are the "markers" -- the IOUs -- which must be collected. And many a Las Vegas loser who signed his chit, sayd Capt. Dantino, awakens some morning to find one of the syndicate persuaders with hand outstretched to collect the gambling debt. Sometimes, the muscled hand isn't empty.

Point is that an industrial state has turned to the green velvet for a social solution. It's playing roulette with its people searching for the jackpot, the big win -- and not just on the red and black. This is a huge numbers game.

The responsibility for decency and order now rests on those who whipped up $1 million for the pro-casino propaganda drive. That's a heavy load. It will take a year or so to start the dice and wheels rolling. And perhaps a year or two more to show whether this once-upon-a-time lovely boardwalk town, long permitted to decay, can be rehabilitated. Five will get you 50 it can't.

What should be done is to develop make-work housing projects; to mix idle black workers with unemployed construction craftsmen to build upon the shambles; to recruit able-bodied men and women from the relief rolls for Atlantic City's physical rehabilitation, even if it means a lower wage base; to develop community self-help plans and a chance for everybody who wants to work to make some "real bread" from all sorts of jobs now priced out of existence.

And all this must be based on self-policing and self-made law and order on the streets. When that went, this city began rotting. Without a real economic foundation and a base of working people, the few gambling casinos will simply be playing social roulette.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by Jack Anderson
and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- In the name of civilization, white Americans have pushed the Indians off their hunting grounds and herded them into reservations. The only wilderness left open to them is Alaska's vast, frozen tundra and timberland.

By Act of Congress, this last open territory was granted to them in 1971. The Alaskan Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts were declared to be the rightful owners of Alaska's wilderness.

Their ancestors had roamed this harsh country for centuries. The Supreme Court supported their right to the region in an 1837 decision. Then in 1969, a giant consortium of oil companies, known as Alyeska, prepared to build the Alaska pipeline.

The company, in clearing the right of way for the pipeline, found the authorities unsure over who owned the Alaskan wilderness. The 1971 Act was supposed to have settled the issue.

But the federal bureaucracy, as we've pointed out in the past, doesn't always pay attention to the laws that Congress passes. The Interior Department has shown a decided reluctance to implement the Act.

The department has been receiving pressure from the same selfish white interests that have succeeded in subverting Indian treaties in the past. The big game hunters and recreational interests fear, not without cause, that the natives will limit the hunting on their land.

Business and political circles are also uneasy over the economic power the natives will wield if they finally gain control of their vast acreage. Already, 12 federally funded, native corporations have been set up to determine how best to develop the land.

The Interior Department, therefore, has been obstructing the transfer of the Alaskan wilderness to its native owners. Congress gave Interior the authority, for example, to reserve certain easements. The purpose was to provide the general public with rights of way across native territory.

The department seized upon this provision to issue massive, blanket easements on the entire coastline of Alaska and around all inland rivers and lakes. The dispute over this action has become bogged down in litigation.

It's an old, sad story. Time and again, the federal government has signed treaties with the Indians, which guaranteed millions of acres but which delivered only thousands.

At this moment, protected white interests are illegally draining off the life-giving water of tribes in various parts of the country -- under the eyes of a government that systematically welshes on its commitments.

DICTATORS BEWARE: With Jimmy Carter in the White House, several Democratic congressmen will seek next year to strip tinhorn Latin American dictators of their military aid.

The group, led by Rep. Edward Koch, D.-N.Y., claims that the military governments face no threats from external enemies and are using American weapons to oppress their own people.

Carter has indicated that he will consider human rights in dealing with foreign nations. Koch expects to have his support, which he will solicit after the new foreign policy team is appointed.

Koch, a key member of the appropriations subcommittee that dispenses foreign aid, succeeded this year in pushing through legislation embargoing military aid to Uruguay. He cited Uruguay's use of U.S.-supplied weapons to torment its own people.

Next year, he plans to concentrate on the military outlays to such repressive governments as Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Paraguay and Nicaragua. There are a "lot of Uruguays in Latin America" he told us.

WATCH ON WASTE -- The Federal Trade Commission was cited in a recent congressional study as the second most effective federal agency. It is effective not only in doing the taxpayers' work it turns out, but also in spending the taxpayers' money.

The FTC concluded a regional directors' conference in Nashville, for example, with a sumptuous smorgasbord of Chinese delicacies and booze. The $900 bill was picked up by the taxpayers.

When the bill arrived at the FTC's finance office, an outraged civil servant, Herb Nelson, refused to approve it. He was overruled by the agency's executive director, R.T. McNamar.

The former chairman, Lewis Engman, didn't like the reception on his office TV set. So the FTC bought him a color set for $500.

A lowlier FTC employee, Gerald H. Smith, was put in charge of a special field station in Detroit. Yet at the same time, he was carried on the rolls of the University of Michigan as a fulltime student.

Smith used an air-conditioned government car to commute the 40 miles between his office in Detroit and the university in Ann Arbor. He submitted vouchers claiming he had driven the car thousands of miles on government business.

Footnote: McNamar conceded it was improper to charge the booze to the taxpayers. But he insisted that the buffet was "appropriate for any conference." Engman said he needed the TV set to watch the newscast for any possible mention of the FTC. Smith declined to comment.

Two Tasting Tea talents

By ANN O'LEARY

Here are two of the many faces behind the fifth annual Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Holiday Tasting Tea, sponsored by Xi Zeta Alpha Chapter. The tea, which will feature holiday dishes from appetizers to desserts, as well as main dishes, will be from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the First Christian Church.

Paula Smith, who teaches homemaking at Sikeston Junior High School, has been involved with the sorority for four years, She received her home economics degree from the University of Arkansas at Fayetville.

Mrs. Smith and her husband, Terry, have two children, Terry Jr., 8, and Stephanie, 5. Paula admits she is kept busy with a job and a family to care for, but says "I enjoy it all very much." Her husband is head football coach at Sikeston Senior High School.

Paula says that in addition to sampling the many dishes available at the tea, visitors will get a chance to see holiday decorations, table settings and displays set up by local merchants to add an eye- pleasing dimension to the tea.

The holidays offer a perfect opportunity for someone such as Margaret Lambert to practice baking, which she admits is her favorite culinary skill. Margaret, who has been a sorority member for six years, says she thinks people are more willing to try new recipes if they get a chance to see what they'll taste like, which the tasting tea gives them the opportunity to do.

She herself is constantly on the lookout for new ideas to feed her family, which consists of husband Tom and daughters Julie, 9, and Alison, 4. Her husband is supervisor of X- ray at Ferguson Medical Group and managing the Lambert Apartments is Margaret's job.

"We try a lot of Mexican foods," Margaret says, explaining that her daughters are usually eager to taste new recipes. Pizza is their current favorite.

Both women will be working hard to get their dishes ready for the tasting tea, where the featured recipes can be purchased in a booklet. Meanwhile, have fun trying these tried- and true recipes offered by Paula and Margaret.

Ann Landers

View of ourselves distorted

Dear Ann Landers: I saw it again today and said to myself, "This is it! I've got to write to Ann Landers."

The problem is not mine but it has me baffled and I simply must find out from someone WHY they do it. I refer to aging males whose hair has thinned or largely departed. They let the few remaining strands grow long, then they drape them all over the head to create the illusion of hair.

Almost always the draped strands fall out of place, hang down over an ear or down the back of the neck and it looks ridiculous.

These men are not blind. Why don't they realize what they look like? -- Pet Peeve From Puerto Rico

Dear Pet: Robert Burns said it best: "O wad some Pow'r the figtie gie us To see ousels as others see us!"

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on the letter from the unhappy "liberated" woman whose 50-year-old husband encouraged her to "do her thing." Later she learned he was "libbing it up" with girls less than half his age. She went on to say he bragged about having sex in automobiles, on the beach and even in a haystack. You called him "a case of arrested development." Why?

My husband and I have been married for 30 years and our sex life is more exciting now than it was on our honeymoon. He taught me not to be a prude -- to be willing to experiment and let myself go. We've made love in the car, in the woods, on the beach and in every room in the house. A change of scenery can do wonders!

Four years ago we put in a swimming pool. We'd heard about skinny-dipping followed up by sex and decided to try it on a very dark night. It was so terrific we've made it a regular thing. Honestly, Ann, that pool has done more for our love-life than any vacation we ever took.

So please don't be so quick to call the guy bonkers. His problem is his wife. She needs to get with it. -- All Woman And Glad Of It

Dear Woman: I'm for married people doing anything that pleases them -- anyplace, anytime -- so long as it's private.

The man you refer to was bragging to his wife about his sex-capades with girls half his age. You call that mature? I don't.

Dear Ann Landers: I may be only 11 years old but I have a problem that is just as horrible as some of the things older people write about.

I have a big space between my two front teeth. People are always asking me if I lost a tooth. It is easier to lie and say "Yes" than to explain things.

I hate this space. I wish I didn't have it. I'm sending my picture so you can see how ugly it is. Will I have the space forever? Please answer my letter even if it isn't about sex. -- Just Me

Dear You: I'm glad you sent the picture so I could see your problem.

Don't lie. Tell people it's "just a space." But -- you don't have to go through life with it. If your mom will take you to a dentist he (or she) will fix it so you will have a beautiful smile when you're older. No one should go through life with a defect he hates if something can be done to fix it. Good luck, Sweetie.

Polly's Pointers

Moths on binge in California

By Polly Cramer

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I bought a hand knit, all wool Irish fisherman's design afghan with the natural oil still in the yarn. Is it mothproof? If not, where can I have it mothproofed? This is important. I plan to give the afghan to my daughter in California for Christmas. I've been told the moths eat everything but people out there. I used to live there, too, and I know what they do. — MRS. C.B.S.

DEAR MRS. C.B.S. — The yarn dealer I spoke with concerning your problem said that for the last several years all wool yarns have come mothproofed. If you notice, the wrappers on most yarns are so marked. Why not inquire at the place where the afghan was bought? It is soil or stains that attract moths, so never put anything that might attract them away, or even in a dark closet, unless the item is clean.

The label on the can of commercial moth spray I always keep on hand (can be bought in department or hardware stores) says it protects wool for one year unless the item is washed or dry cleaned. It seems to me you could follow directions on such a can and spray your afghan on both sides if you have an uncertain feeling about whether or not it was mothproofed before being sold. — POLLY.

IUDs dangerous to pregnant user

BOSTON (AP) — The risk of dying from an infected spontaneous abortion is 50 times higher among women who wear interuterine devices — IUDs — while pregnant, a federal study says.

The researchers say the figures dramatize the importance of women having their IUDs removed at the first sign of pregnancy.

IUDs are plastic birth control devices implanted in the uterus to prevent pregnancy. About 2 per cent of the time, however, they fail, and women become pregnant anyway.

The new study says that unless these women have their IUDs removed at once, they run a greatly increased risk of dying from infected, or septic, abortions that occur spontaneously, unlike those induced by doctors.

The research was conducted by the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. It was published today in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The doctors reached their conclusions after surveying the 50 deaths related to spontaneous abortions that occurred in the United States between 1972 and 1974. During that time, they estimated that 115,000 pregnant women were wearing IUDs and 11.9 million were not.

They found about 15 deaths among every 100,000 women who kept wearing their IUDs while pregnant.

Dear You: I'm glad you sent the picture so I could see your problem.

Don't lie. Tell people it's "just a space." But -- you don't have to go through life with it. If your mom will take you to a dentist he (or she) will fix it so you will have a beautiful smile when you're older. No one should go through life with a defect he hates if something can be done to fix it. Good luck, Sweetie.

Polly's Pointers

Moths on binge in California

By Polly Cramer

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I bought a hand knit, all wool Irish fisherman's design afghan with the natural oil still in the yarn. Is it mothproof? If not, where can I have it mothproofed? This is important. I plan to give the afghan to my daughter in California for Christmas. I've been told the moths eat everything but people out there. I used to live there, too, and I know what they do. — MRS. C.B.S.

DEAR MRS. C.B.S. — The yarn dealer I spoke with concerning your problem said that for the last several years all wool yarns have come mothproofed. If you notice, the wrappers on most yarns are so marked. Why not inquire at the place where the afghan was bought? It is soil or stains that attract moths, so never put anything that might attract them away, or even in a dark closet, unless the item is clean.

The label on the can of commercial moth spray I always keep on hand (can be bought in department or hardware stores) says it protects wool for one year unless the item is washed or dry cleaned. It seems to me you could follow directions on such a can and spray your afghan on both sides if you have an uncertain feeling about whether or not it was mothproofed before being sold. — POLLY.

IUDs dangerous to pregnant user

BOSTON (AP) — The risk of dying from an infected spontaneous abortion is 50 times higher among women who wear interuterine devices — IUDs — while pregnant, a federal study says.

The researchers say the figures dramatize the importance of women having their IUDs removed at the first sign of pregnancy.

IUDs are plastic birth control devices implanted in the uterus to prevent pregnancy. About 2 per cent of the time, however, they fail, and women become pregnant anyway.

The new study says that unless these women have their IUDs removed at once, they run a greatly increased risk of dying from infected, or septic, abortions that occur spontaneously, unlike those induced by doctors.

The research was conducted by the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. It was published today in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The doctors reached their conclusions after surveying the 50 deaths related to spontaneous abortions that occurred in the United States between 1972 and 1974. During that time, they estimated that 115,000 pregnant women were wearing IUDs and 11.9 million were not.

They found about 15 deaths among every 100,000 women who kept wearing their IUDs while pregnant.

FBI steps up national drive to reduce white collar crime

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Federal Bureau of Investigation stepped up its national drive to reduce white-collar crime during fiscal year 1976, with good results, according to FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley.

Kelley said FBI white-collar crime investigations uncovered, for example, land frauds in Arizona, forged and stolen securities in Missouri, industrial espionage in Illinois and short-loadings of grain in Louisiana. Each investigation involved millions of dollars in costs to the American consumer and the business community.

More than 4,600 convictions resulted from FBI investigations, a record and an increase of 856 over 1975.

"We are getting good results, with fine cooperation from federal prosecutors, and we expect even better results in the future," Kelley said.

The director reported that the FBI's investigative resources have been substantially reoriented toward quality-type cases involving violations that could seriously hamper the economic health and integrity of American business.

He said the white-collar criminal, whose trademark is the covert criminal act, has increased in number within recent years, and the FBI anticipates greater investigative activity as a result of the recruitment of additional accountant manpower. Special agent-accountants in the FBI now number more than 800, including about 165 hired since Jan. 1.

Kelley said, "An increasing proportion of our investigative time is being devoted to white-collar crime. Also, the FBI continues participation in the U.S. Department of Justice program to combat fraud in federal government housing projects."

Task forces have concentrated their efforts in 28 major metropolitan areas and, since the inception of this program, over 800 individuals have been indicted. Some of these people are still awaiting trial; however, more than 550 have been convicted.

The FBI and the attorney general's white-collar crime committee are considering using task forces to attack fraud in other federal programs, and the FBI has committed appropriate manpower, Kelley said.

For example, special squads already have been assembled in several geographic areas where many frauds were perpetrated against Veterans Administration educational programs. Recently, 16 people were indicted as a result of a concerted effort to uncover fraud in Medicare-Medicaid programs.

This approach has contributed to an upward trend in convictions for the past three years in white-collar crime, the FBI director said.

Meanwhile, FBI agents are receiving more sophisticated training to better equip them to attack the white-collar criminal.

Kelley said that a four-week advanced computer training program has been instituted at the FBI Academy in Quantico, Va. This program is geared to familiarize the special agent-accountant with computer documentation and automated banking procedures.

In the program, a banking environment is simulated in order to assist special agent-accountants investigating frauds perpetrated against the banking community.

The director indicated that the FBI is alerting manufacturers, distributors and retailers to the white-collar crime problem. These efforts include increasing public awareness of white-collar crime. He also reported that legitimate business organizations have formed groups to assist the law enforcement community in curtailing white-collar criminal activities.

Kelley reported that the white-collar criminal not only practices his deceit here in the United States but has perpetrated mail fraud schemes that have cost foreign investors and financiers millions of dollars.

In one FBI case, three Midwestern businessmen swindled millions of dollars from a Swiss financier and several United States banking institutions. They did so through a clever scheme of fraudulent stock certificates, bank loans and securities thefts. In August, these men received substantial prison sentences.

"I think the penetration of this group constituted a major breakthrough by the FBI in white-collar crime," Kelley said.

He said FBI agents in Chicago and Milwaukee were outstanding in their investigation of industrial espionage in which stolen secrets of a chemical company, valued in excess of $16 million, were recovered.

A former official of the company was convicted, and evidence was developed that he had secret numbered bank accounts in Switzerland and on Grand Cayman Island.

The FBI's New Orleans office, according to Kelley, has conducted a long and elaborate investigation of fraud and widespread theft in connection with foreign grain shipments and the issuance of fraudulent certificates by U.S. Department of Agriculture grain inspectors.

This investigation, as of July 1, had resulted in the conviction of 73 persons and the levying of fines totaling nearly $1 million against individuals and corporations charged with bribery, fraud against the government, theft from interstate shipment and Hobbs Act anti-racketeering violations.

FBI investigations of white-collar crimes, during fiscal year 1976 resulted in fines, savings and recoveries totaling $206 million, an increase of $11 million over the previous year.

Horgan Discovers Lamy's Mission

LAMY OF SANTA FE. By Paul Horgan. Farrar, Straus & Giroux. 440 pages. $15.

Paul Horgan has written several novels and nonfiction works on themes growing out of the history of the Southwest, the latest of which is "Lamy of Santa Fe."

It chronicles the life and times of Jean Baptiste Lamy, a Frenchman who ventured forth from his priestly training to a vocation of missionary to the turbulent territory of New Mexico. Lamy was a remarkable man and Horgan, through diligent research that included scouring Roman Catholic church archives, has presented a thorough portrait of Lamy as he rose from struggling priest to Archbishop.

Although a capsule description of the book would indicate it might only be of interest to New Mexicans, such an assumption would be wrong. Lamy's diligent efforts toward his goals of educating the populace as well as spreading Catholicism and reviving the fallen faithful already in the territory provide an interesting and well-documented example of early missionary efforts in the United States.

Significantly, the book shows that although one might assume missionaries only did obvious religious things, such as building churches, their early efforts in the evolution of the United States also were instrumental in establishing practices and traditions in government and culture that became cornerstones of present civilization. Lamy overcame cultural differences, Indian wars, intra-Church rivalry, diseases and a lack of necessary funds.

He also reported that legitimate business organizations have formed groups to assist the law enforcement community in curtailing white-collar criminal activities.

Kelley reported that the white-collar criminal not only practices his deceit here in the United States but has perpetrated mail fraud schemes that have cost foreign investors and financiers millions of dollars.

In one FBI case, three Midwestern businessmen swindled millions of dollars from a Swiss financier and several United States banking institutions. They did so through a clever scheme of fraudulent stock certificates, bank loans and securities thefts. In August, these men received substantial prison sentences.

"I think the penetration of this group constituted a major breakthrough by the FBI in white-collar crime," Kelley said.

He said FBI agents in Chicago and Milwaukee were outstanding in their investigation of industrial espionage in which stolen secrets of a chemical company, valued in excess of $16 million, were recovered.

A former official of the company was convicted, and evidence was developed that he had secret numbered bank accounts in Switzerland and on Grand Cayman Island.

The FBI's New Orleans office, according to Kelley, has conducted a long and elaborate investigation of fraud and widespread theft in connection with foreign grain shipments and the issuance of fraudulent certificates by U.S. Department of Agriculture grain inspectors.

This investigation, as of July 1, had resulted in the conviction of 73 persons and the levying of fines totaling nearly $1 million against individuals and corporations charged with bribery, fraud against the government, theft from interstate shipment and Hobbs Act anti-racketeering violations.

FBI investigations of white-collar crimes, during fiscal year 1976 resulted in fines, savings and recoveries totaling $206 million, an increase of $11 million over the previous year.

Horgan Discovers Lamy's Mission

LAMY OF SANTA FE. By Paul Horgan. Farrar, Straus & Giroux. 440 pages. $15.

Paul Horgan has written several novels and nonfiction works on themes growing out of the history of the Southwest, the latest of which is "Lamy of Santa Fe."

It chronicles the life and times of Jean Baptiste Lamy, a Frenchman who ventured forth from his priestly training to a vocation of missionary to the turbulent territory of New Mexico. Lamy was a remarkable man and Horgan, through diligent research that included scouring Roman Catholic church archives, has presented a thorough portrait of Lamy as he rose from struggling priest to Archbishop.

Although a capsule description of the book would indicate it might only be of interest to New Mexicans, such an assumption would be wrong. Lamy's diligent efforts toward his goals of educating the populace as well as spreading Catholicism and reviving the fallen faithful already in the territory provide an interesting and well-documented example of early missionary efforts in the United States.

Significantly, the book shows that although one might assume missionaries only did obvious religious things, such as building churches, their early efforts in the evolution of the United States also were instrumental in establishing practices and traditions in government and culture that became cornerstones of present civilization. Lamy overcame cultural differences, Indian wars, intra-Church rivalry, diseases and a lack of necessary funds.

Henry Rivers, 28, of Malden received minor injuries at 5:25 p.m. Wednesday on Highway 62 one mile south of Malden, and was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital.

The patrol said the accident occurred when Rivers' northbound car ran off the road, skidded back across the road, struck a utility pole and overturned.

Walter Carl James, 41, of Oxley was injured at 12:01 a.m. today, one mile west of Fairdealing on Highway 160, when he lost control of an eastbound pickup truck on a sharp curve and the vehicle ran off the road and struck a tree.

Scott City schools to secure loan for payroll

SCOTT CITY (Special) — Although it is not in financial jeopardy, the R-1 Board of Education here said at its meeting Monday that a loan will be secured to meet the system's upcoming November payroll.

It was explained that the loan is necessary because local tax money in any sizeable amount won't be received by the school until January, and because state funds to the school were only about 28 per cent of the total in September, with the next payment not due until Dec. 15. The board emphasized there is sufficient money coming.

Superintendent of Schools Jesse Holmes discussed a state meeting held recently in New Madrid and called by the state commissioner of education. Purpose of the meeting was to evaluate pros and cons of a basic skills test that will be given to eighth grade pupils statewide.

There was some discussion, Mr. Holmes said, as to whether or not the test should be made a graduation requirement. Five representatives of the R-1 district attended that meeting, and seven took part in a workshop held recently in Cape Girardeau.

Scott City attorney Tom Arnold was at the meeting, and discussed progress of a pending annexation suit filed by the City of Cape Girardeau. The area in question surrounds the Cape Girardeau Municipal airport. March 4, 1977, has tentatively been set as date for the trial.

Agnew is named campaign treasurer for the Sikeston Muscular Dystrophy campaign

Don Agnew, president of Security National Bank, has been named campaign treasurer for this year's Muscular Dystrophy Association campaign in Sikeston. The announcement was made by Kent D. Hornberger, district director for the Muscular Dystrophy Association for southeast Missouri.

Volunteers are conducting a house to house appeal for funds to fund MDA's research and patient care programs in Eastern Missouri.

Muscular dystrophy is a relentlessly progressive disease which cripples its victims by destroying muscle tissue. Approximately two-thirds of its victims are children.

Muscular Dystrophy Association is a national voluntary health agency headed by comedian Jerry Lewis. The work of the association is entirely funded by contributions from the public.

The work of research scientists funded by MDA grants has yielded promising leads into the search for causes and treatments of dystrophic and neuromuscular diseases. Cures have not yet been found, but research has brought better care and longer lives to hundreds of thousands of patients.

MDA currently funds a major neuromuscular disease research center at Washington University Medical Center in St. Louis, where a team of 32 scientists are working to find a cure and treatment.

The center received a grant of $320,000 this year. It is one of 10 centers across the country, established by MDA in major medical institutions for an innovative attack on various aspects of the disease. Six other individual scientists and doctors receive support at medical institutions in eastern Missouri.

Patients in the Southeast Missouri area receive care at one of three clinics associated with the Washington and St. Louis University Medical Centers in St. Louis. the association provides free, direct services without respect to family income. The three clinics give continuing patient care and medical management to patients.

MDA also provides summer and weekend camp and recreation programs, wheelchairs, lifts and braces, physical therapy and transportation aid.

More than 8 of every 10 cents of public contributions go into research and direct services. MDA is accredited by the National Health Council.

Stolen car is recovered near I-55

A station wagon, reported stolen Monday from Webb-DeCota Electrical & Industrial Supply, 925 S. Main St., was recovered today near the Nickerson Farms Restaurant on Highway 77 at the Interstate 55 interchange.

The vehicle, a 1975 model, was found by highway patrol officers, who said it apparently was not damaged.

Taxi Fleet

The first fleet of motorized taxis in the United States made its debut in 1907. New Yorkers blinked in amazement as the red, high-seated taximeter cabs imported from Paris drove up in front of the Plaza Hotel to give guests free rides as publicity. The word "taxicab" was coined in New York. "Taxi" came from a French company that made taximetres for horse carriages. Cab abbreviated the French word for cabriolet, a light one-horse carriage.

In SHS Invitational:

Charleston is seeded first

The Charleston Bluejays, the Daily Standard's number one team in the area in a pre- season coaches poll, were seeded first in the upcoming Sikeston Invitational Tournament by the tournament coaches last night.

The tournament will be Nov. 29-Dec. 3, with eight teams entered.

Poplar Bluff surprisingly grabbed the second seed, ahead of Sikeston, which was seeded third. In another mild surprise, Malden took the fourth spot ahead of Lilbourn, which was expected by speculators to get the nod.

Lilbourn will get a chance to prove themselves in the first round as they take on Malden at 6:00 Monday night in the tournament opener. Poplar Bluff meets Dexter at 7:30 Monday, while Charleston plays East Prairie at 9:00.

After a loser's bracket game at 6:00 and a semifinal game at 7:30, Sikeston's Bulldogs will kick off the season at 9:00 Tuesday night against New Madrid.

The tournament breaks Wednesday night, with play resuming at the SHS fieldhouse Thursday evening. After a 6:30 consolation bracket game, the second semifinal contest will get underway at 8:00.

The championship game of the consolation bracket is set for 6:00 Friday night, with the third- place game scheduled at 7:30. The championship finals are set for 9:00.

Officials for the tournament will be Jack Richardson of Farmington, Carl Townsend of Malden, Bob Johnson of Poplar Bluff and Mike Beard of Poplar Bluff.

Boyer to manage at Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Ken Boyer is moving to the Red Wings.

The former star third baseman for St. Louis will manage the Rochester Red Wings of the AAA International League next year, the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle reported today.

He succeeds Joe Altobelli, who will manage the San Francisco Giants next year after leading Rochester to three IL pennants in six years.

Boyer declined comment Wednesday from his home in Hermann, Mo., saying only, "I'm leaning in that direction."

However, the newspaper said other sources confirmed he will manage the Baltimore Orioles' farm club.

An announcement is expected later this week.

Royals announce 1977 home schedule

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The defending American League Western Division Champion Kansas City Royals will open the 1977 home schedule with a bang as Billy Martin and the New York Yankees will be in Royals Stadium Monday, April 11, for the Royals' home opener at 7:30 p.m.

The game is certain to be one of the most exciting Royals' home openers ever as Kansas City and New York staged a thrilling five- game battle in the 1976 League Championship Series this past October setting up a rivalry that promises to be popular with the fans.

The Royals' home schedule features a new format and two new expansion teams with the addition of the Toronto Blue Jays and the Seattle Mariners providing the American League with two seven- team divisions.

With the addition of the two new clubs the playing pattern for visiting teams at Royals Stadium will call for five to eight game series. Each of the visiting Eastern Division opponents will make two visits to Kansas City and play five games here, with the exception of Baltimore, which will play six games as the "wild card" team.

MIAA race down to last week

CAPE GIRARDEAU — As the MIAA race comes down to the wire, the Southeast Missouri State University Indians are one of four teams still in position to capture the conference crown.

"We're one of the fortunate few (teams) still alive that has a chance at the championship," said Head Coach Jim Lohr after the Tibre's victory over the Miners of the University of Missouri--Rolla.

As a result of that victory and of the Northeast Missouri State University Bulldogs' win over the Bearcats of Northwest Missouri State University, the Bulldogs and the Indians each regained a share of the conference lead.

A combination of a win and a loss on Saturday by the league co-leaders would give sole possession of the MIAA crown to the team that wins. A victory by both squads would result in them sharing the conference championship.

Neither team faces a tough contest, apparently, as the Bulldogs host the Miners, who are currently 2-3 in loop action, while the Indians entertain the winless Tigers of Lincoln University from Jefferson City.

In the event the Indians and the Bulldogs both are defeated, the Bearcats would move into first place.

Should that happen the Bears of Southwest Missouri State University, with a win on Saturday, could move into a tie with the Bearcats for the league title.

Though Lohr is confident that Saturday's action will result in a second consecutive title, or a share of it for the Tribe, he does not completely discount the Tigers as pushovers.

"Lincoln is a college football team," he said, "and it's not very often that a college football team goes all season without getting mad and beating someone."

Guiding Coach Don Hudson's Tiger offense will be freshman Fred James of Kansas City and freshman Paul Mitchell of Minneapolis, Minn. James has connected on 26 passes in 84 attempts for 295 yards, while Mitchell has hit on 17 in 66 attempts for 322 yards and two touchdowns. Each man has suffered nine interceptions.

Allen Cook of Marietta, Ga., will lead the Tiger running attack. The freshman running back has picked up 327 yards and three touchdowns on 116 carries.

In SHS Invitational:

Charleston is seeded first

The Charleston Bluejays, the Daily Standard's number one team in the area in a pre- season coaches poll, were seeded first in the upcoming Sikeston Invitational Tournament by the tournament coaches last night.

The tournament will be Nov. 29-Dec. 3, with eight teams entered.

Poplar Bluff surprisingly grabbed the second seed, ahead of Sikeston, which was seeded third. In another mild surprise, Malden took the fourth spot ahead of Lilbourn, which was expected by speculators to get the nod.

Lilbourn will get a chance to prove themselves in the first round as they take on Malden at 6:00 Monday night in the tournament opener. Poplar Bluff meets Dexter at 7:30 Monday, while Charleston plays East Prairie at 9:00.

After a loser's bracket game at 6:00 and a semifinal game at 7:30, Sikeston's Bulldogs will kick off the season at 9:00 Tuesday night against New Madrid.

The tournament breaks Wednesday night, with play resuming at the SHS fieldhouse Thursday evening. After a 6:30 consolation bracket game, the second semifinal contest will get underway at 8:00.

The championship game of the consolation bracket is set for 6:00 Friday night, with the third- place game scheduled at 7:30. The championship finals are set for 9:00.

Officials for the tournament will be Jack Richardson of Farmington, Carl Townsend of Malden, Bob Johnson of Poplar Bluff and Mike Beard of Poplar Bluff.

Boyer to manage at Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Ken Boyer is moving to the Red Wings.

The former star third baseman for St. Louis will manage the Rochester Red Wings of the AAA International League next year, the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle reported today.

He succeeds Joe Altobelli, who will manage the San Francisco Giants next year after leading Rochester to three IL pennants in six years.

Boyer declined comment Wednesday from his home in Hermann, Mo., saying only, "I'm leaning in that direction."

However, the newspaper said other sources confirmed he will manage the Baltimore Orioles' farm club.

An announcement is expected later this week.

Royals announce 1977 home schedule

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The defending American League Western Division Champion Kansas City Royals will open the 1977 home schedule with a bang as Billy Martin and the New York Yankees will be in Royals Stadium Monday, April 11, for the Royals' home opener at 7:30 p.m.

The game is certain to be one of the most exciting Royals' home openers ever as Kansas City and New York staged a thrilling five- game battle in the 1976 League Championship Series this past October setting up a rivalry that promises to be popular with the fans.

The Royals' home schedule features a new format and two new expansion teams with the addition of the Toronto Blue Jays and the Seattle Mariners providing the American League with two seven- team divisions.

With the addition of the two new clubs the playing pattern for visiting teams at Royals Stadium will call for five to eight game series. Each of the visiting Eastern Division opponents will make two visits to Kansas City and play five games here, with the exception of Baltimore, which will play six games as the "wild card" team.

MIAA race down to last week

CAPE GIRARDEAU — As the MIAA race comes down to the wire, the Southeast Missouri State University Indians are one of four teams still in position to capture the conference crown.

"We're one of the fortunate few (teams) still alive that has a chance at the championship," said Head Coach Jim Lohr after the Tibre's victory over the Miners of the University of Missouri--Rolla.

As a result of that victory and of the Northeast Missouri State University Bulldogs' win over the Bearcats of Northwest Missouri State University, the Bulldogs and the Indians each regained a share of the conference lead.

A combination of a win and a loss on Saturday by the league co-leaders would give sole possession of the MIAA crown to the team that wins. A victory by both squads would result in them sharing the conference championship.

Neither team faces a tough contest, apparently, as the Bulldogs host the Miners, who are currently 2-3 in loop action, while the Indians entertain the winless Tigers of Lincoln University from Jefferson City.

Pittsburgh votes for Sugar Bowl

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Top-ranked Pittsburgh will be celebrating New Year's in New Orleans, having decided it can best further its quest for college football's national championship by taking on Southeastern Conference titlist Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

While bowl bids may not be tendered until 6 p.m., EST, Saturday, the seniors and starters on the 10-0 Pitt team have already met and decided the Sugar Bowl looked sweet to them.

And if the No. 1 team in the country — with a super attraction like running back Tony Dorsett — wants the Sugar Bowl, you can rest assured the Sugar Bowl will want Pitt. Interestingly, Dorsett says he had favored the Orange Bowl, but "majority rules," so he'll head for New Orleans.

In other developments as teams jockey for position in the bowl lineup, unbeaten Maryland appears headed for a clash with the Southwest Conference champion in the Cotton Bowl, defending national champion Oklahoma is a likely opponent for Western Athletic Conference king Wyoming in the Fiesta Bowl and thrice-beaten Alabama is expected to be invited to the Liberty Bowl.

That decision made a happy man of Georgia Coach Vince Dooley, whose club earned an automatic trip to New Orleans as the SEC champion and now has a chance to knock off No. 1.

"I am pleased the No. 1-ranked team has decided to accept the Sugar Bowl invitation, if offered," Dooley said.

And lest there be any doubt about it, Sugar Bowl officials in New Orleans confirmed they planned to invite Pitt.

The Big Eight champion will be one half of the Orange Bowl matchup, but Pitt's decision leaves the other spot up for grabs.

Maryland, 10-0 and tied for the No. 6 ranking, will reportedly be invited to journey to the Cotton Bowl in Dallas — its first bowl bid in 21 years — but only if the Terps close out their season with a victory over Virginia Saturday.

Two of this weekend's games will clear up the bowl picture considerably—the Big Ten title clash between Ohio State and Michigan and the Pacific-8 showdown between UCLA and Southern Cal.

Good news for Big 8

KANSAS CITY (AP) — With Big Eight football's final regular-season weekend approaching, there was encouraging news from various camps Wednesday as the injury situation continued to improve.

Stopping Iowa State quarterback Buddy Hardeman is a major concern for Oklahoma State and the Cowboys focused their attention on that goal Wednesday. Coach Jim Stanley said "Hardeman runs the sprint out very well and the sweep just as effectively. I know if their quarterback, Wayne Stanley, is able to play, we'll be in trouble. They're both very good, but Stanley is hobbled by an injury."

Iowa State held its last heavy workout of the week as it prepared for Saturday's game against the Cowboys that will produce a share of the Big Eight title for the winner. Quarterback Wayne Stanley, considered doubtful for the game, was not at practice. Stanley, who suffered a slight ligament tear in his left knee in the Nebraska game last Saturday, was reportedly receiving a final fitting on a knee brace in Des Moines. Coach Earle Bruce, who earlier Wednesday received a three-year extention on his contract, expressed concern about stopping the Cowboys top ground gainer — running back Terry Miller.

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said Wednesday he favors Oklahoma State to win its game with Iowa State Saturday that will determine Nebraska's chances for an Orange Bowl bid. Following a two-hour practice, Osborne said he doesn't understand why the same Nebraska football team that averaged 1½ turnovers per game last year has fumbled 30 times and lost 22 this year. He said the Huskers are using the same drill to prevent fumbles as it did last year.

The Oklahoma Sooners returned to practice Wednesday after taking a three-day layoff. "We concentrated on conditioning today," said Coach Barry Switzer. "After you take time off, you need a while to get back in shape." Oklahoma does not face an opponent Saturday and Switzer gave his team the vacation to rest up for next week's game with Nebraska.

Big Red sign Mike McGraw

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Linebacker Mike McGraw was singed today by the St. Louis Cardinals, who released another young linebacker, Mike McDonald, to make room for him on their squad.

The 22-year-old McGraw was a 10th-round draft choice of the National Football League club in 1975 but was cut before the start of the season. He signed with New England this season but was again released.

A three-year starter at Wyoming, McGraw is the son of Thurman "Fum" McGraw, an All-Pro performer with the Detroit Lions in 1950-54.

McDonald joined the Cardinals Oct. 21 after regular Ray White suffered a knee injury. McDonald was a 16th-round draft choice of the New Orleans Saints last season before being cut and he also tried out with Cleveland this year.

The Cardinals also announced that rookie running back Randy Walker, who has been sidelined by a knee injury, was removed from the injured reserved list, placed on waivers and released.

Dr. W. J. Long of Poplar Bluff poses with the enormous buffalo that probably will become a national record. The 56-pound fish easily qualified for a new state record and has been submitted to two different record-keeping agencies as a possible world record.

Bluff man's buffalo could qualify as world record

POPLAR BLUFF— That case of the on-again, off-again buffalo is in the court of appeal.

On August 19, Dr. W. J. Long of Poplar Bluff caught the biggest fish he'd ever hoped to catch. It turned out to be a 56-pound buffalo which just purely flattened the Missouri state record of 38 pounds by rod and reel, 40 pounds by any method.

It also flattened all submitted world records. There are two established world record keeping agencies. One is Field and Stream magazine which has a 43 pound, six ounce bigmouth buffalo listed as its top submitted fish.

The Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame lists a 47 pound, two ounce buffalo, caught in 1975 as its top fish. Either way, Dr. Long's fish is well over the record.

Now comes a technicality, sneaking in the door like a hobo at a full dress wedding. Dr. Long was fishing in a private Butler County lake with an old fishing buddy, Louis (Shimmy) Boyet.

Boyet reported the fish to Field and Stream saying he'd helped land it. Dr. Long says he handed the rod to Boyet to "let him see what a big fish feels like," but says Boyet immediately handed it back, saying he didn't want to be responsible for losing such a big fish.

A radio interview, made after the fish was landed (by both men) supports that story, but the local newspaper cutline of a photo of the two says, "After a 30-minute struggle, with Boyet 'spelling' Long on the rod, the two men managed to hoist the fish on the dock."

"Inasmuch as two people played the fish," writes Miss Mary Ball, keeper of the Field and Stream records, "I'm afraid it does not qualify as a record, unfortunately.

"However, we are still interested in the fish as a 'caught by any method record' ".

Larry Ramsell, keeper of the Freshwater Hall records says: "Although it is without a doubt the largest ever caught on hook and line, it fails to meet the requirements of a sortfishing world record, that being that the fish must be 'played by only ONE person.' "

The Conservation Department is submitting copies of the taped interview, with Dennis Keeney of Station KWOC, on appeal to both records keepers.

Dr. Long says he knows there are several buffalo in the lake at least as big as the one he caught, and it's a cinch that any of them hooked in the future will be played by only one person, regardless of how many anglers are on hand.

Missouri did own the world "caught by any method" record on a buffalo snagged in the Current River in 1971 by Lovel Hall, Doniphan. It weighed 40 pounds. But that record has gone by the boards.

Oddly, the Oklahoma state record is 43:08 and Kansas has a 54:04 whopper on its books, but neither state had submitted the fish for world marks. Iowa also has a 43:08 fish.

Texas, as might be expected, has a 58-pounder on its books -- also not submitted as a world mark. That fish, if authenticated, would make the controversy over Dr. Long's fish academic.

Today, saving energy is perhaps your number one design priority. Several thousand years ago, we came up with a rather earthly solution to energy conservation.

Brick walls are simply unmatched in their ability to reduce heating and cooling costs...drastically. In fact, an insulated brick wall is as much as 430% more efficient than a double plate glass wall in reducing heat loss. And as much as 75 times more efficient in reducing solar heat gain! A startling difference.

Furthermore, the same brick wall has a much lower initial cost than double plate glass. We think you'll find the answer to saving energy. And money.

Dr. Long says he knows there are several buffalo in the lake at least as big as the one he caught, and it's a cinch that any of them hooked in the future will be played by only one person, regardless of how many anglers are on hand.

Missouri did own the world "caught by any method" record on a buffalo snagged in the Current River in 1971 by Lovel Hall, Doniphan. It weighed 40 pounds. But that record has gone by the boards.

Oddly, the Oklahoma state record is 43:08 and Kansas has a 54:04 whopper on its books, but neither state had submitted the fish for world marks. Iowa also has a 43:08 fish.

Texas, as might be expected, has a 58-pounder on its books -- also not submitted as a world mark. That fish, if authenticated, would make the controversy over Dr. Long's fish academic.

Good news for Big 8

KANSAS CITY (AP) — With Big Eight football's final regular-season weekend approaching, there was encouraging news from various camps Wednesday as the injury situation continued to improve.

Stopping Iowa State quarterback Buddy Hardeman is a major concern for Oklahoma State and the Cowboys focused their attention on that goal Wednesday. Coach Jim Stanley said "Hardeman runs the sprint out very well and the sweep just as effectively. I know if their quarterback, Wayne Stanley, is able to play, we'll be in trouble. They're both very good, but Stanley is hobbled by an injury."

Iowa State held its last heavy workout of the week as it prepared for Saturday's game against the Cowboys that will produce a share of the Big Eight title for the winner. Quarterback Wayne Stanley, considered doubtful for the game, was not at practice. Stanley, who suffered a slight ligament tear in his left knee in the Nebraska game last Saturday, was reportedly receiving a final fitting on a knee brace in Des Moines. Coach Earle Bruce, who earlier Wednesday received a three-year extention on his contract, expressed concern about stopping the Cowboys top ground gainer — running back Terry Miller.

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said Wednesday he favors Oklahoma State to win its game with Iowa State Saturday that will determine Nebraska's chances for an Orange Bowl bid. Following a two-hour practice, Osborne said he doesn't understand why the same Nebraska football team that averaged 1½ turnovers per game last year has fumbled 30 times and lost 22 this year. He said the Huskers are using the same drill to prevent fumbles as it did last year.

The Oklahoma Sooners returned to practice Wednesday after taking a three-day layoff. "We concentrated on conditioning today," said Coach Barry Switzer. "After you take time off, you need a while to get back in shape." Oklahoma does not face an opponent Saturday and Switzer gave his team the vacation to rest up for next week's game with Nebraska.

Big Red sign Mike McGraw

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Linebacker Mike McGraw was singed today by the St. Louis Cardinals, who released another young linebacker, Mike McDonald, to make room for him on their squad.

The 22-year-old McGraw was a 10th-round draft choice of the National Football League club in 1975 but was cut before the start of the season. He signed with New England this season but was again released.

A three-year starter at Wyoming, McGraw is the son of Thurman "Fum" McGraw, an All-Pro performer with the Detroit Lions in 1950-54.

McDonald joined the Cardinals Oct. 21 after regular Ray White suffered a knee injury. McDonald was a 16th-round draft choice of the New Orleans Saints last season before being cut and he also tried out with Cleveland this year.

The Cardinals also announced that rookie running back Randy Walker, who has been sidelined by a knee injury, was removed from the injured reserved list, placed on waivers and released.

Woodland couldn't find the bucket in the first period against Delta as they fell behind 10-2 after the quarter and 19-8 at the half. Vance scored 10 for Delta, while Ledbetter's 15 points for Woodland were for a losing cause.

Brick. The Saver

Today, saving energy is perhaps your number one design priority. Several thousand years ago, we came up with a rather earthly solution to energy conservation.

Brick walls are simply unmatched in their ability to reduce heating and cooling costs...drastically. In fact, an insulated brick wall is as much as 450% more efficient than a double plate glass wall in reducing heat loss. And as much as 75 times more efficient in reducing solar heat gain! A startling difference.

Furthermore, the same brick wall has a much lower initial cost than double plate glass. We think you'll find the answer to saving energy. And money.

Leafs stop Montreal; Blues and Red Wings tie

AP Sports Writer

Rookie Mike Palmateer had a little talk with himself before going out to play goal for the Toronto Maple Leafs against the Montreal Canadiens.

"I said to myself I'd be happy with only four goals against," said the 22-year-old netminder, who went on to exceed his expectations with his second consecutive shutout and the first against the high-scoring Canadiens in 192 regular-season National Hockey League games since Nov. 2, 1974, as Toronto blanked Montreal 1-0 Wednesday night.

After thwarting attempts by Steve Shutt — the league's leading goal scorer — and Rejean Houle early in the game, Palmateer got the only goal he needed from Lanny McDonald's 40-foot shot at 8:26 of the first period.

In the other NHL games Wednesday night, the St. Louis Blues and Detroit Red Wings tied 5-5, the Atlanta Flames beat the Colorado Rockies 6-3, the New York Rangers trimmed the Chicago Black Hawks 3-2, the Cleveland Barons and the Minnesota North Stars tied 3-3, and the Buffalo Sabres topped the Vancouver Canucks 3-2.

Palmateer, who blanked Vancouver last Saturday night, made 39 stops in besting the Canadiens.

Blues 5, Red Wings 5

Rick Lapointe's 90-foot goal with 7:40 remaining salvaged a tie for Detroit, which twice blew three-goal leads to the Blues. Dennis Hextall, Bobby Sheehan and Walt McKechnie got the Red Wings started quickly, and after Garry Unger scored for St. Louis, Nick Libett restored the three-goal lead.

Flames 6, Rockies 3

Rookie right wing Bill Plett scored twice in a five-goal second period which lifted Atlanta over Colorado and gave the Flames a five-game unbeaten streak. The Rockies, who got goals from Gary Croteau, Chuck Arnason and Mike Kitchen, are winless in four games. Other Atlanta scorers were David Shand, Tom Lysiak, Eric Vail and Guy Chouinard.

Rangers 3, Black Hawks 2

Barons 3, North Stars 3

Cleveland's Mike Christie scored with six minutes to go, completing the Barons' comeback from a 3-0 deficit and extending the team's unbeaten streak to seven games. Bill Fairbairn, Roland Erikkson and Pierre Jarry put Minnesota in front, then Dave Gardner and Mike Fidler hit for Cleveland.

Sabres 3, Canucks 2

Third-period goals by Terry Martin and Don Luce — Luce scoring with 13 seconds remaining — gave Buffalo its victory over Vancouver.

Pistons motor along with Carr; Nuggets continue hot play

By The Associated Press

M.L. Carr, a second-year pro from Guilford College, scored a career-high 24 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, helping the Detroit Pistons to their seventh straight National Basketball Association victory, a 118-95 clubbing of Maravich's New Orleans Jazz Wednesday night.

In other NBA games, the Indiana Pacers surprised the Philadelphia 76ers 123-117, the Denver Nuggets routed the New York Nets 112-78, the Houston Rockets edged the Buffalo Braves 120-114 in overtime, the Boston Celtics beat the Atlanta Hawks 104-91, the Washington Bullets defeated the New York Knicks 111-97, the Phoenix Suns beat the Milwaukee Bucks 103-95 and the Seattle SuperSonics stopped the Cleveland Cavaliers 92-78.

Pacers 123, 76ers 117

Billy Knight scored 30 points and Wil Jones 20 as the Pacers snapped a six-game losing streak by stunning the 76ers in Philadelphia. Indiana scored 12 consecutive points in the first quarter and took a lead it never gave up.

Nuggets 112, Nets 78

Denver raised its record to 10-1, best in the NBA, by overrunning the Nets in a matchup of last year's ABA playoff finalists. The Nets, who finished with a .296 shooting percentage, trailed by just four points after one quarter but were outscored 32-16 in the second period, when they sank just three of 25 field goal attempts.

Rockets 120, Braves 114

Houston erased a 17-point second-quarter deficit, blew a six-point lead in the closing 2½ minutes of regulation play, then came on to outscore Buffalo 16-10 in overtime. Buffalo's Bob McAdoo led all scorers with 27 points, but his desperation, half-court basket at the buzzer was ruled too late.

Celtics 104, Hawks 91

Boston ran off 16 points in a row during the second period and went on to hand Atlanta its 27th consecutive loss on the road. Boston's Charlie Scott and John Havlicek and Atlanta rookie center Tom Barker each scored 20 points.

Bullets 111, Knicks 97

Phil Chenier scored 30 points and Len Robinson added 27 points and a career-high 20 rebounds as Washington coasted past the Knicks. Robinson and Elvin Hayes combined for 22 points in the third period as the Bullets broke the game open by outscoring New York 36-26.

Two more former A's sign up

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Outfielder Joe Rudi and shortstop Bert Campaneris are the latest refugees in the exodus of the Oakland A's via baseball's free agent route.

Rudi joined another ex-Oakland outfielder, Don Baylor, with the California Angels, and Campaneris signed with the Texas Rangers.

Both players agreed to long-term deals Wednesday and ex-Philadelphia Phillies' second baseman Dave Cash reached a similar arrangement with the Montreal Expos.

That's five signings in two days for super-agent Jerry Kapstein and four of the players he has parceled out are ex-employes of the A's and owner Charles O. Finley. Besides Rudi, Baylor and Campaneris, former Oakland catcher-first baseman Gene Tenace signed with San Diego.

Still waiting their turns are reliever Rollie Fingers, one of five free agents Kapstein still has available, and third baseman Sal Bando.

Rudi, who carried a million-dollar price tag after Boston paid Finley that much for him last June in a deal that was vetoed by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, bristled over the image his old boss has painted for himself in this free agent marketplace.

"It's incredible that Charlie comes out looking like the good guy," the veteran outfielder said. "The average people really don't know what is going on. People say, 'How can you not get along with such a nice man like that?' But they don't know him."

Rudi batted .270 with 13 home runs and 94 runs batted in for the A's last season. He missed three weeks when Finley refused to allow him in the lineup following Kuhn's block of the sale to Boston.

Only a strike threat by the rest of the team forced Finley to restore Rudi, Fingers and Vida Blue to active duty.

California lost three minor league infielders, Paul Dade, Billy Smith and Tim Nordbrook, in the draft. That allows the Angels to sign three other free agents, one more than any other club except the A's, who can sign six.

Leafs stop Montreal; Blues and Red Wings tie

AP Sports Writer

Rookie Mike Palmateer had a little talk with himself before going out to play goal for the Toronto Maple Leafs against the Montreal Canadiens.

"I said to myself I'd be happy with only four goals against," said the 22-year-old netminder, who went on to exceed his expectations with his second consecutive shutout and the first against the high-scoring Canadiens in 192 regular-season National Hockey League games since Nov. 2, 1974, as Toronto blanked Montreal 1-0 Wednesday night.

After thwarting attempts by Steve Shutt — the league's leading goal scorer — and Rejean Houle early in the game, Palmateer got the only goal he needed from Lanny McDonald's 40-foot shot at 8:26 of the first period.

In the other NHL games Wednesday night, the St. Louis Blues and Detroit Red Wings tied 5-5, the Atlanta Flames beat the Colorado Rockies 6-3, the New York Rangers trimmed the Chicago Black Hawks 3-2, the Cleveland Barons and the Minnesota North Stars tied 3-3, and the Buffalo Sabres topped the Vancouver Canucks 3-2.

Palmateer, who blanked Vancouver last Saturday night, made 39 stops in besting the Canadiens.

Blues 5, Red Wings 5

Rick Lapointe's 90-foot goal with 7:40 remaining salvaged a tie for Detroit, which twice blew three-goal leads to the Blues. Dennis Hextall, Bobby Sheehan and Walt McKechnie got the Red Wings started quickly, and after Garry Unger scored for St. Louis, Nick Libett restored the three-goal lead.

Flames 6, Rockies 3

Rookie right wing Bill Plett scored twice in a five-goal second period which lifted Atlanta over Colorado and gave the Flames a five-game unbeaten streak. The Rockies, who got goals from Gary Croteau, Chuck Arnason and Mike Kitchen, are winless in four games. Other Atlanta scorers were David Shand, Tom Lysiak, Eric Vail and Guy Chouinard.

Rangers 3, Black Hawks 2

Barons 3, North Stars 3

Cleveland's Mike Christie scored with six minutes to go, completing the Barons' comeback from a 3-0 deficit and extending the team's unbeaten streak to seven games. Bill Fairbairn, Roland Erikkson and Pierre Jarry put Minnesota in front, then Dave Gardner and Mike Fidler hit for Cleveland.

Sabres 3, Canucks 2

Third-period goals by Terry Martin and Don Luce — Luce scoring with 13 seconds remaining — gave Buffalo its victory over Vancouver.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Dave Cash, second baseman for the National League East Divison Philadelphia Phillies, signed a multi-year contract with the Montreal Expos.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — The Texas Rangers signed shortstop Bert Campaneris of the Oakland A's, their second-round pick in the Nov. 4 free-agent draft, to a multi-year contract.

Pistons motor along with Carr; Nuggets continue hot play

By The Associated Press

M.L. Carr, a second-year pro from Guilford College, scored a career-high 24 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, helping the Detroit Pistons to their seventh straight National Basketball Association victory, a 118-95 clubbing of Maravich's New Orleans Jazz Wednesday night.

In other NBA games, the Indiana Pacers surprised the Philadelphia 76ers 123-117, the Denver Nuggets routed the New York Nets 112-78, the Houston Rockets edged the Buffalo Braves 120-114 in overtime, the Boston Celtics beat the Atlanta Hawks 104-91, the Washington Bullets defeated the New York Knicks 111-97, the Phoenix Suns beat the Milwaukee Bucks 103-95 and the Seattle SuperSonics stopped the Cleveland Cavaliers 92-78.

Pacers 123, 76ers 117

Billy Knight scored 30 points and Wil Jones 20 as the Pacers snapped a six-game losing streak by stunning the 76ers in Philadelphia. Indiana scored 12 consecutive points in the first quarter and took a lead it never gave up.

Nuggets 112, Nets 78

Denver raised its record to 10-1, best in the NBA, by overrunning the Nets in a matchup of last year's ABA playoff finalists. The Nets, who finished with a .296 shooting percentage, trailed by just four points after one quarter but were outscored 32-16 in the second period, when they sank just three of 25 field goal attempts.

Rockets 120, Braves 114

Houston erased a 17-point second-quarter deficit, blew a six-point lead in the closing 2½ minutes of regulation play, then came on to outscore Buffalo 16-10 in overtime. Buffalo's Bob McAdoo led all scorers with 27 points, but his desperation, half-court basket at the buzzer was ruled too late.

Celtics 104, Hawks 91

Boston ran off 16 points in a row during the second period and went on to hand Atlanta its 27th consecutive loss on the road. Boston's Charlie Scott and John Havlicek and Atlanta rookie center Tom Barker each scored 20 points.

Bullets 111, Knicks 97

Phil Chenier scored 30 points and Len Robinson added 27 points and a career-high 20 rebounds as Washington coasted past the Knicks. Robinson and Elvin Hayes combined for 22 points in the third period as the Bullets broke the game open by outscoring New York 36-26.

Two more former A's sign up

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Outfielder Joe Rudi and shortstop Bert Campaneris are the latest refugees in the exodus of the Oakland A's via baseball's free agent route.

Rudi joined another ex-Oakland outfielder, Don Baylor, with the California Angels, and Campaneris signed with the Texas Rangers.

Both players agreed to long-term deals Wednesday and ex-Philadelphia Phillies' second baseman Dave Cash reached a similar arrangement with the Montreal Expos.

That's five signings in two days for super-agent Jerry Kapstein and four of the players he has parceled out are ex-employes of the A's and owner Charles O. Finley. Besides Rudi, Baylor and Campaneris, former Oakland catcher-first baseman Gene Tenace signed with San Diego.

Still waiting their turns are reliever Rollie Fingers, one of five free agents Kapstein still has available, and third baseman Sal Bando.

Rudi, who carried a million-dollar price tag after Boston paid Finley that much for him last June in a deal that was vetoed by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, bristled over the image his old boss has painted for himself in this free agent marketplace.

"It's incredible that Charlie comes out looking like the good guy," the veteran outfielder said. "The average people really don't know what is going on. People say, 'How can you not get along with such a nice man like that?' But they don't know him."

Rudi batted .270 with 13 home runs and 94 runs batted in for the A's last season. He missed three weeks when Finley refused to allow him in the lineup following Kuhn's block of the sale to Boston.

Only a strike threat by the rest of the team forced Finley to restore Rudi, Fingers and Vida Blue to active duty.

California lost three minor league infielders, Paul Dade, Billy Smith and Tim Nordbrook, in the draft. That allows the Angels to sign three other free agents, one more than any other club except the A's, who can sign six.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Nov. 18, the 323rd day of 1976. There are 43 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1903, the United States and Panama signed a treaty granting U.S. rights to build the Panama Canal.

On this date:

In 1626, St. Peter's Basilica in Rome was consecrated by Pope Urban the Eighth.

In 1852, more than one million people lined the streets of London to view the funeral procession of the Duke of Wellington.

In 1883, the United States adopted standard time.

In 1935, economic sanctions were imposed against Italy after the Italian invasion of Ethiopia.

In 1936, the Fascist governments of Germany and Italy recognized the Franco regime in Spain.

In 1970, West Germany and Communist Poland agreed to restore relations, ending 31 years of enmity.

Ten years ago: U.S. Roman Catholics did away with the church rule against eating meat on Fridays.

Five years ago: Communist China tested its 12th nuclear bomb in seven years.

One year ago: The U.S. Senate approved the nomination of Donald Rumsfeld as Secretary of Defense.

Today's birthdays: Orchestra conductor Eugene Ormandy is 77. Pollster George Gallup is 75.

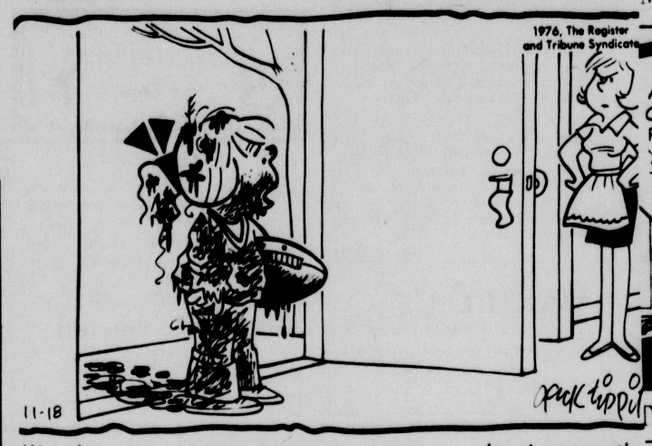

Thought for today: "Freedom rings where opinions clash." — Adlai Stevenson, 1900-1965.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, British General William Howe honored the Hessians who had played a major role in the capture of Fort Washington Manhattan from the Americans and renamed the post on northern Manhattan Fort Kuyphausen.

Will the southern glossary go to the White House?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Will it be socially correct in the new White House to tell the president you consider him "wild as a peach orchard boar?"

Not hardly. In fact, that type of running off at the mouth could get you branded as a fellow who's about three pickles shy of a barrel, or somewhat less than prudent.

"Wild as a peach orchard boar" is an old Southern expression for a man intent on having his way with the ladies. It is definitely not the type of subject to bring up in polite company, according to a new book called "You All Spoken Here."

The book was written by Roy Wilder, a sometime newspaperman and ad writer from Raleigh, N.C. Wilder thinks there could be quite a market for a glossary that defines what Jimmy Carter and his fellow Georgians mean when they get to "carryin' on" in their mother tongue.

Washington hostesses, for example, have been reportedly nervous that they won't fit into the Carter family's White House social circle.

They'll know what it means if one of Carter's Southern friends refers to him as "the big dog in the meathouse." That's been a Georgia term for top banana ever since baseball great Ty Cobb used it to describe a top player back at the turn of the century.

Carter became the top dog in the meathouse by beating President Ford, even though he didn't exactly "blow his doors off." Blowing someone's doors off is what the driver of a fast stock car does to the driver of a slow one when he passes him. It's synonymous with trouncing.

Others recall his promise never to lie. If he fails to keep that promise, they'll be able to say, "His mouth ain't no prayer book."

But if they're not judged by Carter to be "born tired," "common," or "not worth the shot it would take to send them to hell," — all terms signifying less than high esteem — they might find themselves working in the Carter administration.

Scott County will make formal grant to upgrade housing

BENTON — Scott County's formal application for a grant program through the Department of Housing and Urban Development to upgrade substandard housing may be the first in the United States to come through a County Court.

The court Monday said it would make formal application for $400,000 to fund the program, which would operate in the cities of Benton, Scott City and Illmo. Grant requests generally come through individual cities, Tanna Parish, executive director of the Charleston Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority, who is assisting Scott County in its application request, said that to his knowledge, the court's application will be the first of its kind.

The HUD program would allow persons within certain income limitations to receive up to $3,500 for repairs to upgrade their homes. Major repairs would include roofing, wiring, plumbing and the like.

The money will be an outright gift, it has been explained to the court, with a primary idea of the 100 per cent funding program to introduce new money into a community and keep it circulating there.

Money would not be paid directly to homeowners, but will be held in escrow and paid to contractors when work is completed.

The Missouri Municipal League earlier recommended that Bootheel counties apply for the program. A study coordinated by Parish indicated that Scott County had the most towns that would benefit from the program.

The application is due Jan. 7, and approval is expected as early as February or March. It is anticipated that 100 houses can be done during the first year of the program's existence.

Louis Hirschowitz, presiding judge of the County Court, said public hearings to explain details of the program will be set in December.

Just as in the raising of a beautiful race horse or show dog— we humans must have a well balanced diet to assure strong bones, muscle and teeth, glossy hair, energy and endurance. You cannot expect radiant beauty and health on a diet of potato chips, candy bars, and soda pop or coffee. There are 40 essential nutrients that the human body needs to build and maintain the complex chemistry of our body. It requires milk (skim perhaps), fresh fruit and vegetables of many varieties, whole cereals, lean meat and nuts. Every mother should study a good book on nutrition and balanced diets— there is no better health suggestion.
